When the long-awaited moment of a couple's romantic retreat finally arrives, it... turns into a hilarious fiasco. Incredibly, the charming guesthouse has been simultaneously rented to two completely unrelated and vastly different couples. What exactly can be done in this situation? Complaining could be an option, of course, but sometimes it leads nowhere. Moreover, it turns out that this amusing situation is exactly what everyone involved needed. After all, sometimes, by confiding our problems to a stranger, we discover more about our own lives than we would with “our own people.”

Are strangers really always strangers? Is the unexpected always unwelcome? Amusing, spicy, and nerve-wracking circumstances come together in the comedic tale “The Big Bed”!
